I saw the walls of her stomach peeling like the walls of abandoned buildings like the pages of a forgotten book...

I touched the wall and it turned into dust, shattering into petals of yellow chrysanthemums...

One woman refuses to eat. She becomes the chosen one - to lead the women, the people into a new era. She visits Gandhi, Karen Carpenter, Mother Teresa in a little island called Paradise. Hordes of women follow her, women who heal and perform miracles. The women have a glimpse of utopia in the Land of Women. They become a nation unto themselves - a nation of hungry ghosts. They are hunted by a man with a syringe, by the establishment. Inspired by the Ming Dynasty classic, Jing Hua Yuan and the World War II Holocaust.
