Haunted

Once upon a time, not so long ago in Singapore, the Loongs were a wealthy family that seemed to have it all. However, there were rumours going round of course, of a fateful love affair, an illegitimate child... but don't people always gossip about the rich and famous?

Old Master Loong refuses to sell and move on, although Ming and Ping, his 2 daughters, work at persuading him. Selling, to them, means money and another chance at life. There are things in the old house that make them uncomfortable. Strange sounds, strange sensations, that strange sweet smell that wafts through the corridors at a certain time of night... The old man, oblivious to all this, is only shaken when his long-lost grandson appears... a grandson with the ability to communicate with his grandfather's long-dead love.

A ghost more haunted than haunting, she carries with her unanswered questions that have tied her to this old house since her death. Hers is a death as yet unsolved... and two more deaths occur, as her influence over the household grows stronger. There are also other malevolent influences at work in the Loong mansion, not all necessarily from the other side of the grave ...
