Serunding

Winner of the 24-Hour Playwriting Competition 2010 (Open Category), this one-woman play stars to life the voice of Safiah. A Malay homemaker, Safiah's belief as a devout Muslim and parental expectations falls into conflict with her children; she also suffers tedious ties with her mother-in-law 'Sofea Jane'. Told through humour, food and many phone calls, Serunding draws us to the heart and pain of a mother's love. A spicy sweet expression of the Singapore family today. Performed in English.

Serunding is a Community Project by TheatreWorks' Writers' Lab, in partnership with the South East Community Development Council. The Writers' Lab is the longest running developmental programme for playwrights in Singapore. Since 1990, it has nurtured many seminal Singapore plays and generations of illustrious Singapore writers. The Community Project, in its second year, showcases the works of young/aspiring writers, and creates a unique theatrical experience for all.

"...Serunding is a joy to watch—the personable Safiah talks animatedly to her audience throughout, interspersing her life story with equally animated phone conversations with her fellow makcik friends." – Juliana June Rasul, The New Paper, 7 Dec 2010

"The script was artfully crafted, its warm tone sitting very well with the audience, who laughed and cried with the protagonist wholeheartedly." – Natalie Koh, The Business Times, 10 Dec 2010

"(Serunding) reflects very much the life of a typical Singapore family today. I am a Chinese Singaporean and I feel this play resonates with our Singaporean audience, Malay or not. Thank you, TheatreWorks and South East Community Development Council for this great partnership in bringing local arts to the heartland for our enjoyment." – Julia Ong, a South East District resident, in her letter to The Straits Times, 11 Dec 2010
